

Company & products

think-cell develops software for professional users of Microsoft® Office who are dissatisfied with spending too much time preparing business presentations. Our products turn the flexibility of PowerPoint® into result-oriented efficiency.

Our mission

think-cell is the leading software provider for all fast-moving professionals when it comes to creating and altering time-critical, high-quality business presentations.

We are working with our customers, staying at the forefront of our profession. We deliver products that help our customers thrive because we know their work and apply research and development methods no competitor can match.

We do not simply sell software. We spend considerable time to perfectly understand our customers' requirements, tailor our products to their needs and ensure the benefits of the resulting solution.

Our customers

Why do over 175,000 users at more than 3,750 companies rely on our software every day? Because our products are built to fit their needs. Our customers use think-cell software to increase quality, cut costs, and simply offer their professionals the best working environment possible.

We mainly serve management consulting firms, corporate strategy and controlling business units because they spend a large share of their valuable resources on creating presentation slides for communication with their clients and colleagues. We serve:

- 8 of the top 10 consulting firms ranked in vault.com's "Consulting Firm Rankings 2012: Vault Consulting 50". Six of these firms have licensed our software for all their consultants.
- 50 of the 100 blue chip companies ranked in the top 100 of Fortune 500.
- 8 of the top 10 consulting firms ranked in Lünendonk's "Top 25 Management Consulting Firms in Germany 2010". Seven of these firms have licensed our software for all their consultants.
- 29 of the 30 blue chip companies listed in the German stock market index DAX.

Our product principles

Presentation-ready quality

Presentation quality suffers when time is scarce. Using think-cell products, you can always produce high-quality results that are immediately ready to use in your presentations.

Highest-possible efficiency

The intelligent design of our products reduces the number of interactions necessary to create and alter presentations to the absolute minimum. Hours of tedious work are reduced to minutes.

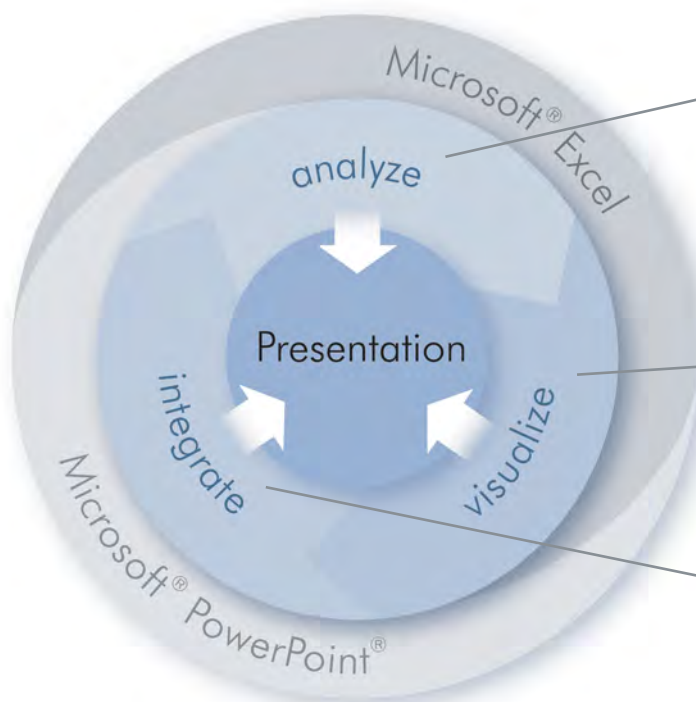

Full compatibility

All our products fully integrate into Microsoft Office and produce 100% compatible presentations. Sharing files with other Office users is seamless.

Ease of use

When creating our software, we did not hide features in dozens of menus, dialogs and property pages. With a few hours of hands-on experience, anyone can become a proficient think-cell users.
